DIEHL REUNION

Saturday, August 16, we had the pleasure of attending the Diehl Reunion held in Fyan's Grove East of Bedford and we must confess that there was a deal of a crowd of Diehls, big Diehls and little Diehls, fat Diehls and lean Diehls, Squire Diehls, and Commissioner Diehls, Koontz Diehls, Smith Diehls, Shoemaker Diehls, Beagle Diehls, and Diehl Diehls. There were more Diehls than you could shake a stick at and in very truth we would not venture to shake a stick at two of them lest we should get a swipe from their paw that would feel like a blow from a grizzly. These two little fellows are Alex Diehl, who lacked just 20 years 10 months and 20 days being a centenarian and the other boy was Henry Diehl who is 1 year 10 months and 11 days Alex's junior. They sang a song at this—Diehl of a Reunion in honor of the Diehl family and Alex Diehl its oldest member. The song runs like this:

The sun shone bright in the valley of the Rhine,
In the country of old Germany,
When a small crowd started—all marching in a line,
For the land of the noble and the free.

The Diehls were there in their vigor and their health,
All ready for hardships and toil;
They were out in search for future homes and wealth,
So they came to our Old Virginia's soil.

Chorus

The Diehls a noble family. Her name we love so well,
We will sing our song, of the dear old name we love,
Of the dear old name we love so well.

"Good by," said Sam, as he left the Old Domain,
In summer of seventeen-eighty-four.
He came and settled in the township of Colerain.

And slept on his little cabin floor.
The young Diehls came till the number counted nine,
Miss Ritchey—their mother so good
Six boys—three girls, went to church all in time,
From that home so happy in the wood.—Chorus.

Time passed by like a meteor in the sky,
The seasons were short and were long.

The Diehls grew fast, and were many by and by,
They were civil industrious and strong.

They sought no fame in the government affairs,
They were happy at home on the farm.
Church work, industry and honesty were theirs,
And they wished no person any harm.—Chorus.

H. P. Diehl is the oldest Diehl we knew;
Who is the youngest no one can tell,
And now we have sung of the Diehls of long ago—

The dear old name we love so well,
The Diehl Reunion is a period in our lives.

We cherish as no one can tell,
Our love for the name it certainly revives,
As we sing of the name we love so well.

Chorus

O, the Diehl Reunion: We love to gather here;
We will sing our song of the dear old name we love,
We will sing with pleasure and with cheer.

Reta Diehl recited a poem of some length concerning the Diehl history as well as stability which runs like this:

Scores of years have come and gone
Great changes taken place,
Since Sam Diehl left Holland home
With others of his race.

They came to old Virginia
Louden County was their home
Until that vixen discontent
Induced them more to roam.

They came to Pennsylvania,
Bedford County was their choice,
Close by the shadowy mountain
Again was heard their voice.

'Twas here they found pure waters
Flowing from the mountain side,
So cool and so refreshing
They chose here to abide.

They labored long to clear their land,
Of timber, brush and stone;
They hewed the logs to build a house
And then to build a barn.

Today we find Diehls everywhere,
All o'er this wide domain
But Friend's Cove is the garden spot
Where most of them remain.

H. P. we well may mention,
The most venerable of them all,
So well preserved at eighty-five
'Tis pleasant to recall.

When he was young and full of vim,
How all the girls and boys
Would congregate to hear him sing,
He had a charming voice.

Washington News Letter

President Wilson shattered all tradition and defied all precedent when he received the Senate foreign relations committee at the White House to give them further information which they sought on the league of nations covenant and treaty with Germany, in the hope of hastening ratification, so that the industries of the country may be put upon a normal basis again.

The President after his address to the committee submitted himself to a three hours public cross-examination by members of the committee, and it is believed that many points were cleared up which were not hitherto understood.

In his address to the committee; he said: I venture again to urge my advice that the action of the Senate with regard to the treaty be taken at the earliest practicable moment, because the problems with which we are face to face in the readjustment of our national life are of the most pressing and critical character, and will require for their proper solution the most intimate and disinterested co-operation of all parties and all interests, and cannot be postponed without manifest peril to our people and all the national advantages we hold most dear. May I mention a few of the matters which cannot be handled with intelligence until the country knows the character of the peace it is to have? I do so only by a very few samples.

The copper mines of Montana, Arizona and Alaska for example, are being kept open and in operation only at a great cost and loss, in part upon borrowed money; the zinc mines of Missouri, Tennessee and Wisconsin are being operated at about half their capacity; the lead of Idaho, Illinois and Missouri reaches only a portion of its former market; there is an immediate need of cotton belting and also for lubricating oil which cannot be met—all because the channels of trade are barred by war when there is no war. The same is true of raw cotton, of which the central empires alone formerly purchased nearly four million bales annually. And these are only samples. There is hardly a single class of manufactured goods which is not in the same case. Our full normal profitable production waits on peace. Our military plans of course wait upon it. We cannot intelligently or wisely decide how large a naval or military force we shall maintain, or what our policy with regard to military training is to be until we have peace, not only but also until we know how peace is to be sustained; whether by arms of single nations, or by the concert of all the great peoples. And there is more than that difficulty involved. The vast surplus properties of the Army include not food and clothing merely, whose sale will effect normal production, but great manufacturing establishments also, which should be restored to their former uses; great stores of machine tools and all sorts of merchandise, which must be idle until peace and military policy are definitely determined. By these tokens there can be no properly studied national budget until then.

Congress has given up all idea of adjournment, and has settled down to the adjustment of the important questions now before the country.

The peace treaty and league of nations debate has given away temporarily to the discussion of the high cost of living problem and it is hoped that some solution will be found to bring down prices within the possible reach of the wage worker. It has developed that the profiteering does not originate with the farmer, but that the money grabbing middle man is the real culprit. Abnormal quantities of food stuffs have been located in cold storage, and in many cases seized and will be thrown on the market. Hoards of non-perishable foods have also been discovered, and the hoarders will be made to disgorge. This with the eighty millions of dollars worth surplus Army food which will be thrown on the market at cost price to the government, should alleviate the situation somewhat, and until legislation can be put through to bring about a permanent improvement.

Attorney General Palmer in a recent address in New York appealed for aid in jailing "unconscious" profiteers in the necessities of life. He said that prices set by fair price committees throughout the country will be accepted as standard, and that charges in excess of those prices will be prima facie evidence of profiteering. He said: I am trying to have congress pass a law which will make profiteering a crime. I want the penalty the same as for hoarding: A maximum fine of $5000.00 and two years in prison. To his mind a prison sentence is much more effective than a fine. He stated that the fair price committees will use the club of publicity.

While the cost of living goes higher and higher labor all over the country is clamoring for higher wages to meet the situation, but as the leaders of the big railroad labor organizations put it; it is useless to raise wages, as the profiteer immediately raises price to absorb the wage raise. As one remedy he advocated the "firing squad" for some of the profiteers.

In a stirring speech in the Senate Senator Walsh of Massachusetts appealed to his colleagues to drop politics and get together in an effort to solve the high cost of living problem through legislation. If conditions are permitted to continue, he said the people would lose faith in their government, and when that day came it would be an evil time for the republic.

In my opinion "he said" present high prices are due primarily to the worst condition of criminal profiteering that any country has seen in recent years. I think when the evidence is made public as to the terrible amount, millions and millions of dollars of profit, and have been made by manufacturers and manipulators of foodstuffs in this country, we will have all we can do to satisfy our people that they are living under a government which can protect them and will protect them.

If there is a remedy; he said let us give it to the people, and let us put it first on the program of action here each day, and agree to study and work over this problem constantly until we settle it. This will put the unrest at peace, and restore confidence in our institutions and in our government.

The bride was attired in a handsome gown of blue tulle and carried a bouquet of blue carnations and crepe and carried swansaleas. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Harman left on a wedding trip, and upon their return will reside in their newly furnished home at Altoona, Pa., where they are both well and favorably known.

ITALIAN BRIDES HELPED BY Y. W. C. A.

Italy Port work for Italian brides of American soldiers has been established by the American Y. W. C. A. in Naples and Genoa as a part of the Association's after war work for American women.

The work will be modeled after that done for French war brides at Brest and St. Nazaire and will probably continue for about six months as many more women will be sent from Italy than from France.

"The difference is that in Italy it is a family proposition," says Miss Constance Clark, finance executive for the American Y. W. C. A. overseas, who has just made an investigating trip through Italy. "In addition to the war brides, there are numbers of women, forty or fifty years of age, who are waiting to cross to America for the first time. Their husbands are Italian-Americans who fought in the great war, and for this reason the American Army is willing to send over their wives and children, despite the fact that the offspring in a single family often number eight or nine."

One advantage in Italy as against France, Miss Clark says, is that Italian brides speak the same language as their husbands so that Y. W. C. A. secretaries do not have to be matrimonial interpreters as they are frequently in France.

Association war work in Italy has opened up in ten different cities: Rome, Naples, Florence, Belegna, Venice, Turin, Genoa, Spezia, Palermo in Sicily and Trieste, under the direction of Miss Lilian Hull who started for Russia last autumn and, on finding it impossible to get into Russia until spring, decided to go to Italy. Miss Jessie Bidwell is finance executive for the Italian work. General headquarters are in Genoa.

The central Y. W. C. A. building in Via Balboa, Rome which was given by Miss Helen Gould has not been operated for years because of lack of funds. This building is being taken over and being operated under the name of the American Y. W. C. A. for a year. It is to be a foyer for working girls and also an international hotel for students. Miss Mabel Warner, who was in charge of the Hostess House in Rome during the winter will be head of this work.

A large old-fashioned hotel on one of the central squares in Genoa has been taken over. The main dining room and some floors are to be used as a Hostess House or women's hotel while the upper floors will be fitted up for industrial girls who have difficulty finding reasonable living accommodations. The ground floor will be made into a recreation room, cafeteria and class rooms.

A vacation camp has been opened in the Tuscan hills, above Florence, for girls who have become anemic during the war through lack of food and bad living conditions. Miss Clark reports that the Italian girls are quite generally underfed.

"They lived on chestnut flower or whatever they could get. I saw one little girl there, worn out from lack of food and from lack of wages. She was an embroiderer and got fifty centimes a day—ten cents. I think I shall never again put a piece of embroidery on my body, the cost is too great."

"This camp was quite badly shaken up and the walls cracked quite a bit during the earthquake on June 29th. The shocks occurred every hour so that the entire household had to sleep on the stones in the open driveway one night, but earthquakes are such common things that this disturbed no one. A fresh group of girls were eager to go to camp next week. Many of them had not a country vacation since 1914."

A Y. W. C. A. club and an American Hotel for students is to be opened in Florence probably in the building which was formerly a German student hotel and which has been taken over by the Government. Recreation centers will be opened in Turin, Milan, Venice, Palermo, Spezia, Belegna, Trieste and Naples.

During her stay in Italy Miss Clark saw several riots in Naples, accidentally rode into a macaroni riot. The women, she said, were protesting against the high cost of living but did not restore to violence.

ADDRESS OF MR. JAMES MARK

Mr. Chairman and Fellowworkers, I am very glad of this opportunity to say a few words in behalf of the new Political organization which you have started. I have been listening very contentedly to your discussions of how the brother lost his papers for candidate on the Republican ticket for Sheriff, and like Mr. Jones must say this is but a little thing compared to the many other things you will run up against in the political world. The best thing to do is to give one good reason to voters why you cannot have a candidate. To successfully carry on the movement it must be backed by all the Labor men in Bedford County and when things do not go your way in all things do not lay down on the job for I'll assure you every thing will not be a bed of roses. The older parties have had undisputed sway over this nation, for man, many years, and we must expect games, tricks and many disappointments to come our way. If one man would not be elected then we should not lay down on the job for politics are only worked up through time and if the organization is backed and financed by the Labor League you are bound to win.

To be successful in politics every body must be dependent on himself and not on the leader. It is customary in most organizations for the leader to go ahead with everything and the rank and file sit back to criticize. The successful party is when every man takes off his coat and helps. There are more men in Laboring movement who do more criticizing about the movement than they do in promoting its interests, and helping it to success. The rankinle expects an impossibility of their leaders.

It reminds me of a story I heard once. It was about two Irishmen. The one Irishman lived in this country about three years and he thought he would take his friend around to see to sights. So he went down to the boat to meet him and after visiting several places of interest he ask him if he had heard the story of Steve Brady who jumped off the Brooklyn bridge. The Irishman said Oh! yes he had heard it and would like to see the bridge, so they went down to see it and coming back the other Irishman said would you like to see Steve Brady and he said he would. They went to Steve Brady apartments and after the introduction the Irishman said, Oh! jaspers I thought he jumped over the bridge. It is the same in every organization and same applies to this movement.

There are three very important offices in every County. The first is County Judge. He can be of real assistance to the people at large if he is a fair minded Judge. Second is the District attorney. They have office which are supposed to be, set apart especially for cases from county and are supposed to give a square deal to all.

To show how important these offices are, at Corral a mining town in Indiana Co the Donahue coal miners wanted to organize 100 per cent and acquainted the Company with their plans. They did not say anything and after a week passed and didn't hear they organized. They then went to consult the District Attorney with the matter and I was invited to go along. He told us that they would not recognize the U. M. W. of America. We tried to explain and used all our persuasive powers but his answer was NO. They gave orders under what terms we were to work, and ask us what right we had to setting time, what right we had to higher wages. There was only one thing he gave us, and he was very liberal, very liberal in this privilege that all men in his employ who did not like conditions could quit.

In a few days there was a strike and all of these miners there in Corral were turned out of their home. It wasn't this time that this organization sent $1,000 worth of tents to these people and they were set up on some ground which we purchased from a farmer. There these people are yet and have been since the 1st of last April. Then after the mines had been shut up for two days they began to import a lot of strike breakers, and the mines were started up again. The people were not satisfied they paraded the streets coaxing the men to quit work. The matter was taken to courts Indiana county and an injunction was passed which said that any man who wanted to work should not be hindered in any way. There were seventeen of the men arrested and taken to the county jail and we were given no satisfaction as to whether they would be there a day, week, month or a year. They were there however just one week. We went to see them and took them a razor, cup, cigars, and a few other little things. They said they were happy and would never give up.

There was enacted what was known as Check Weigh Bill. This law was in force until war broke out then it was found that it was unconstitutional and it was taken from the miners. The miners began to complain about it and the matter was taken before squire, from there to the court, then to Harrisburg and State. It was found unconstitutional after 1914 on account of a defective title. It was brought before legislature again to be made a law. It passed the first, second, and third reading. Then one of their men got to his feet and moved to turn bill back to the committee. One of the laws down there

WAR DEPARTMENT PUBLISHES BATTLE DATA.

According to advices received at the Army Recruiting Station, 102 1/2 Pitt Street, Bedford, Pa., the average age of United States Soldiers killed during the war, was 23 years. Figured compiled in the office of the Chief of Staff, A. E. F. from overseas hospital records show 756 deaths resulting from gassing in action.

The latest report from the Casualty Section, A. G. O., dated July 31, shows only 241 missing in action. Large reductions have been made in the list as a result of checking against the list of the Central Records Office, A. E. F. So far 1,413 missing have been cleared on evidence establishing the presumption of death in action.

A new provision added to Special Regulations 41, Paragraph 96, IN-SIGNIA ON SLEEVES, provides that enlisted men who have served on active duty as commissioned officers in the Army of the United States, and whose commissioned service was terminated honorably, are authorized to wear a band of forest green braid 1/2 inch wide, on both sleeves of the service coat, the lower edge of the braid to be three inches from the end of the sleeves.

Correct Poultry House Construction

The prime essentials in poultry house construction dryness, sunlight, and proper space are treated in this Government booklet which is issued by the Bureau of Animal Industry. The booklet also deals in detail with poultry house roofs, floors, partitions, roost and dropping boards, material paints, and whitewash.

Readers of the Gazette may obtain a copy of this booklet free by asking for F. B. 574, addressing their request to the Division of Publications, Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. Do not send return postage.

How To Remove Stains Of All Kinds From Clothing

Most stains may be removed easily at home, provided reliable methods are known and a few simple precautions are taken. With some stains prompt home treatment is necessary in order to save the article in question from being ruined and in most cases it is desirable since all stains are removed more easily when fresh. Too much emphasis can not be laid on the importance of applying the stain removers while the stain is still fresh, for usually it is much more difficult to remove an old stain than a fresh one.

The nature of a stain should be known, if possible, before its removal is attempted, since this determines the treatment to be applied. Moreover, if an unsuitable stain remover is used, the stain may be "set" so that its removal becomes difficult or even impossible.

Readers of the Gazette may obtain a copy of this booklet free by asking for F. B. 561, addressing a postal card to the Division of Publications, Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Food In Storage Increases as Prices Rise

Although prices of practically all important foods have shown a substantial increase during the last year, stocks in storage on June 1 this year were approximately 20 per cent greater than those held last year according to a statement by the Federal Trade Commission.

To show that the law of supply and demand is not working the Commission listed eight staple foods held in storage which have increased in price from 3 to 295 per cent.

Vegetables Give Health When Cooked Properly

Fresh vegetables, served freely, add vigor and freedom from sickness for those who eat them. They keep the blood as it should be and the whole body in good condition. The whole family will ask for a second helping if the vegetables are cooked so they are refreshing and palatable.

Vegetables just out of the garden taste best when simply cooked—steamed, boiled or baked—and served with a little salt, butter, milk or cream. Often a heavily seasoned sauce covers up the more desirable vegetable flavor.

Overcooking of vegetables impairs their flavor. Very delicate flavors are destroyed, while vegetables with very strong flavors, such as cabbage or onions, become disagreeably strong if cooked too long. Overcooking also destroys the attractive color of some vegetables.

Cook summer vegetables as soon after they are gathered as possible, in order to preserve the flavor. If they must be kept over, keep in the ice box or some other cool place.

Let wilted vegetables soak in cold water to freshen them. If vegetables must stand after paring, cover with cold water to prevent wilting and discoloration.

Before cooking, put head vegetables and greens in cold water for one hour with a tablespoon of vinegar to remove insects, then wash very carefully.

Drain all boiled vegetables as soon as tender—they become soggy if allowed to stand undrained after cooking. The water drained off may be saved for soup stock.

Most vegetables are better when cooked in a small amount of water, because out of the mineral salt dissolves out into the water and is lost if the water is thrown away. Cook whole when possible.

Tender spinach or lettuce leaves require no added water for cooking. If thoroughly washed, enough water will cling to the leaves to prevent burning.

Delicately flavored vegetables should be steamed or cooked slowly in a small amount of boiling water until tender and the water boils away.

Strongly flavored vegetables may be cooked uncovered in a large amount of rapidly boiling water, and the water changed several times during the cooking.

Starchy vegetables should be put on and cooked in a sufficiently large amount of boiling water to cover them. Boil gently and keep kettle covered.

The time required for cooking vegetables depends on the kind, size and age of the vegetable. Judgment must be used in deciding when they are quite done but not overdone.

Ratify The Treaty

Readjustment of the world's economic and industrial conditions, which were so badly dislocated by the war, is impossible so long as there are fears and doubts as to international relation in the immediate future. The establishment of a dozen governments in Europe, the boundaries between new nations, the resumption of commerce with the late belligerents, the extension of credits and a hundred other no less vital problems depend upon the conclusion of peace.

There can be no real prosperity without peace. There can be no peace until the treaty between Germany and all the countries with which she was at war is accomplished fact. The present status of uncertainty is sure to reduce unrest among peoples everywhere and consequent disturbance of business.

The biggest and most powerful nation of the world—the United States—is seriously affected by its present position in the twilight between war and peace. As the most important factor in the finance and trade of the world the United States must be free to return to its tasks at home and abroad before Europe and South America can find themselves.

The New York World correctly diagnoses the present economic situation when it says editorially:

"There can be no approach to normal conditions in this country until the treaty of peace is out of the way and the work of liquidating the war Government as well as of the victims of the existing situation. Business of all kinds is largely speculative because of indefiniteness and uncertainty, and gambling has to be paid for by somebody. In this case it is paid for by the consumer, who must take care of both gains and losses."

Let the Senate ratify the treaty and approve the covenant of the League of Nations. That act alone will stabilize the world. It will turn the people's thoughts from the war. It will restore the psychology of peace.

"Gee-Whiz! Now it Hurts—
—The Pain in My Foot!"

"Sometimes it is in my arm. Merciful Heaven, how my back hurts in the morning!" It's all due to an overabundance of that poison called uric acid. The kidneys are not able to get rid of it. Such conditions you can readily overcome, and prolong life by taking the advice of Dr. Pierce, which is "keep the kidneys in good order."

"Avoid too much meat, alcohol or tea. Drink plenty of pure water, preferably hot water, before meals, and drive the uric acid out of the system by taking Anurie." This can be obtained at almost any drug store.

Send a bottle of water to the chemist at Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., and you will receive free medical advice as to whether the kidneys are affected. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog, you suffer from backache, sick-headache, dizzy spells, or twinges and pains of lumbago, rheumatism or gout; or sleep is disturbed two or three times a night, take heed, before too late. Get Anurie (anti-uric-acid), for it will put new life into your kidneys and your entire system. Ask your nearest druggist for it or send Dr. Pierce ten cents for trial package.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D. D.,
Teacher of English Bible in the Moody
Bible Institute of Chicago.)
(Copyright, 1919, Western Newspaper Union)

LESSON FOR AUGUST 31

SELF CONTROL (Temperance).

LESSON TEXT—Daniel 1:8-21.
GOLDEN TEXT—Every man that striveth for the mastery is temperate in all things—I Cor. 9:25.

ADDITIONAL MATERIAL—Romans 14:
1-3, I Cor. 9:24-27.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Keeping away from things which may harm us.
JUNIOR TOPIC—The story of a boy who became a strong man.
INTERMEDIATE TOPIC—Learning
self-mastery.

SENIOR AND ADULT TOPIC—Self-control the secret of success.

It is somewhat strange that the lesson committee should select this Scripture as a temperance lesson, for it says nothing about temperance as ordinarily understood. Total abstinence from intoxicating liquor should be the law of every Christian's life, but it is not so taught in this Scripture.

1. Daniel Tested (vv. 5-7).

Daniel, while a tender youth, was torn from home ties and made a captive in a foreign land to be trained for service at the royal court. In order to be of the largest service it was necessary that he be brought to love the king and nation, and be detached from his own people and religion. To accomplish this they—

1. Appointed him a daily provision of the king's meat and wine (v. 5). This was for a twofold purpose: (1) To gain the good will of Daniel and his friends. Such recognition would encourage them to give themselves up to the king's service. (2) To supply them with food deemed suitable for their physical and mental development. To partake of the food offered was against Daniel's religion. His conscience would not allow him to partake thereof. Doubtless the meat and wine had connection with heathen feasts.

2. Changed name (v. 7).

The object of this was to obliterate national and religious connection, and to identify them with the heathen people. Daniel, which means "God is my Judge," was changed to Belshazzar, meaning Bel's prince; Hananiah, which means "The gift of Jehovah," to Shadrach, meaning illumined by the sun god Rak; Mishael, which means "Who is as God," to Meshach, meaning who is like the goddess Sheshach; Azariah, which means "Jehovah is our help," to Abed-nego, meaning the servant of Nego. Behind this change of names was the attempt of Satan to wipe from the minds of these young men the name of the true God and to cause them to lose their place of separation.

11. Daniel Standing the Test (vv. 8-14).

Though a captive in a foreign land, Daniel purposed in his heart that he would not defile himself with the king's meat and wine. His home training was such that in this trying hour he had the decision of character to stand firm for his conviction. He obeyed the dictates of his conscience. While unflinchingly loyal to God he did not lose his gentlemanly courtesy. He requested to be tested ten days in the food which the law of his God allowed, agreeing to abide by the results. Loyalty to God and conscience need not interfere with gentlemanly behavior.

111. Daniel's Reward (vv. 15-21).

1. Physical health (v. 15). Godly and temperate living pays. The king's meat and wine would have been very palatable, but to have partaken would have been a compromise with his conscience. The exercise of self-control in this matter kept his conscience pure, and also improved his physical health.

2. Mental growth (vv. 17-20). He was ten times the superior of his associates.

3. Socially (v. 19). He stood before the king. He not only was next to the king, but became president of the college of wise men, and prime minister of the empire, continuing through several dynasties (v. 21).

4. Spiritually (v. 17). God revealed to him Nebuchadnezzar's dream and gave him visions stretching across the history of the world.

The secret of Daniel's success was (1) conscientiousness; (2) loyalty to God; (3) decision of character; (4) prayerfulness; (5) diligence; (6) courtesy.

Our Heavenly Father.

All of heaven and all of earth cannot contain God. There is something of himself left for the hearts of men. Just as the water which spills out of the full bucket is as good as any of the water in the bucket, so that part of God which dwells in the hearts of men is just as much of God as that of himself which dwells in heaven.

Living Influence.

Whatever definitions men have given of religion, I find none so accurately descriptive of it as this; that it is such a belief of the Bible as maintains a living influence on the heart and life.—Cecil.

Result of Christian Temper.

Peace is the proper result of the Christian temper. It is the great kindness which our religion doth us, that it brings us to a settledness of mind, and a consistency within ourselves.—Bishop Patrick.

The woman who used to look upon a wedding invitation as a social victory now has a daughter who includes such things in the list of monthly bills.—Dallas News.

Those Blundering Authors!

We referred recently to one of John Galsworthy's American characters calling for "A flash of beer," now here's another writer, Arthur J. Rees, saying, "He is, to use an American colloquialism, 'quick on the uptake.'" Tut! This, as Barrie lovers know, is Scotch.—Boston Transcript.

Outclassed.

Wife—"That Mrs. Brown must be an awful gossip. I never can tell her anything but what she's heard it before."—Blighty (London).

A Great Advantage.

The principal of a college was lecturing has staff of teachers upon efficiency. "What," he demanded, "would be thought of a glove-maker who at the close of the season found 10 per cent of his stock returned because it fell below standard requirements? Why should we require a 100 per cent efficiency of the glove-maker and only 90 per cent of a teacher?" "Because," responded a teacher, "he can select his kids!"

Daring Pioneers.

On June 7, 1769, Daniel Boone, with five other hunters from North Carolina, reached Red river, Kentucky. They were the first white men to explore the territory, for it had been called by the Indians "The Dark and Bloody Ground."

Colored Rains.

The rain can and does wash down anything that happens to be in the air at the time, including dust, pollen, small insects, but we have no record of tadpoles being washed down out of the air. The phenomena of colored rains, so-called rain of blood, etc., can be readily explained by the presence of dust in the atmosphere.

World's Largest Crater.

Dr. B. F. Griggs, who has been exploring the volcano of Mt. Katmai, in Alaska, for the National Geographical society, announces that this is the greatest crater in the world, being no less than nine miles in circumference and 3,960 feet in depth.

Make It Brief.

It may not be of much interest to you, Mr. Visitor, but the fellow who asks you how you feel today doesn't want to listen to a lot of symptoms. Remember that.—From (Hot Springs) Arkansas Thomas Cat.

The last day to pay tax to qualify for November Election is Saturday October 4, 1919.

All voters must declare their party affiliations to vote a party ballot but do not need to declare for voting a non-partisan ballot. This applies only to the Primary.

PROBLEMS OF THE COMMUNITY.

SURE it is that we need War Camp Community Service minus the "war" and the "camp" since the war has stopped and the camp may not be here forever. The war service of this organization is distinctly of a sort capable of large development and civil adaptation in time of peace.

The problem of reconstruction, of fostering the sense of nationalism, of promoting a common sympathy and contentment, and of making the community a better place in which to live are vital to the well-being of every man, woman and child in the community.

It is good news therefore that War Camp Community Service will develop and readjust its energies to meet in a practical way, not only the new needs and problems but the old need of making the social order a better and sunnier and kinder order for the common man to live under. Under the name Community Service (Incorporated) it will extend its activities toward the establishment of recreational centers, bring all the folks together and get them to work, as neighbors, for the benefit of all. It is needless to say that real citizenship of the too much neglected foreign-born is to be a prime end of the movement.

There will be skeptics of course; but let them ask themselves whether the times are not out of joint and grave problems pressing; and whether, therefore, Community Service may not help to set the times right, and aid in solving these problems by bringing all classes together in common sympathy and sense of responsibility. The American people, native and foreign-born, have fought together in the war to save democracy. They must fight side by side to keep the stronghold of democracy against enemies from without and within, and to vanquish those enemies and prevail and be secure they must be truly democratic, in thought and deed and service, members of one great family of freemen, which cannot be until they understand one another and keep step in the march of progress.

WILSON ANSWERS SENATE QUERIES

Says He Sees No Reasonable Objection to Reservations Concerning League of Nations.

CONFERENCE AT WHITE HOUSE

President Asserts United States Surrenders No Powers and May Withdraw at Will.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 19.—President Wilson and the members of the Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate met at the White House Tuesday to discuss the peace treaty.

The President opened the discussion by impressing on the senators the urgency of prompt ratification of the treaty without amendments and without reservations that would require re-submission of the treaty to the other signatories, especially Germany.

The President said that the interest of every class of people, the farmers, industrial workers and employees, demanded prompt ratification to the end that stable conditions of industry, agriculture and employment be re-established. The President's address, which was in effect an address to the country, follows:

"I hope that this conference will serve to expedite your consideration of the treaty of peace. I beg that you will pardon and indulge me if I again urge that practically the whole task of bringing the country back to normal conditions of life and industry waits upon the decision of the Senate with regards to the terms of the peace.

"I venture thus again to urge my advice that the action of the Senate with regard to the treaty be taken at the earliest practicable moment because the problems with which we are faced to face in the readjustment of our national life are of the most pressing and critical character, will require for their proper solution the most intimate and disinterested co-operation of all parties and all interests, and cannot be postponed without manifest peril to our people and to all the national advantages we hold most dear.

"The copper mines of Montana, Arizona and Alaska, for example, are being kept open and in operation only at a great cost and loss, in part upon borrowed money; the zinc mines of Missouri, Tennessee and Wisconsin are being operated at about one-half their capacity; the lead of Idaho, Illinois and Missouri reaches only a portion of its former market; there is an immediate need for cotton belting, and also for lubricating oil which cannot be met, all because the channels of trade are barred by war when there is no war. The same is true of raw cotton, of which the central empires alone formerly purchased nearly four million bales. And these are only examples. There is hardly a single raw material, a single important foodstuff, or a single class of manufactured goods which is not in the same case. Our full, normal profitable production waits on peace.

"Our military plans, of course, wait upon it. We cannot intelligently or wisely decide how large a naval or military force we shall maintain or what our policy with regard to military training is to be until we have peace not only, but also until we know how peace is to be sustained, whether by the arms of single nations or by the concert of all the great peoples. And there is more than that difficulty involved. The vast surplus properties of the army include, not food and clothing merely, whose sale will affect normal production, but great manufacturing establishments also, which should be restored to their former uses, great stores of machine tools and all sorts of merchandise, which must lie idle until peace and military policy are definitely determined.

"The nations that ratify the treaty, such as Great Britain, Belgium and France, will be in a position to lay their plans for controlling the markets of central Europe, without competition from us, if we do not presently act. We have no consular agents, no trade representatives, there to look out for our interests.

"There are large areas of Europe whose future will lie uncertain and questionable until their people know the final settlements of peace and the forces which are to administer and sustain it.

"Without determinate markets our production cannot proceed with intelligence or confidence. There can be no easy or normal industrial credits because there can be no confident or permanent revival of business. There can be no stabilization of wages because there can be no settled conditions of employment.

"Every element of normal life among us depends upon and awaits the ratification of the treaty of peace; and we cannot afford to lose a single summer's day by not doing all that we can to mitigate the winter's suffering, which, unless we find means to prevent it, may prove disastrous to a large portion of the world, and may, at its worst, bring upon Europe conditions even more terrible than those brought by the war itself.

"Nothing, I am led to believe, stands in the way of the ratification of the treaty except doubts with regard to the meaning and implication of certain articles of the covenant of the league of nations; and I must frankly say that I am unable to understand why such doubts should be entertained. You will recall that when I had the pleasure of a conference with your committee and with the committee of the House of Representatives on Foreign Affairs at the White House in March last, the questions now most frequently asked about the league of nations were all canvassed, with a view to their immediate clarification. The covenant of the league was then in its first draft and subject to revision. It was pointed out that no express recognition was given to the Monroe doctrine, that it was not expressly provided that the league should have no authority to act or to express a judgment on matters of domestic policy, that the right to withdraw from the league was not expressly recognized, and that the constitutional rights of the Congress to determine all questions of peace and war was not sufficiently safeguarded. On my return to Paris all these matters were taken up again by the Commission on the League of Nations and every suggestion of the United States was accepted.

"The view of the United States with regard to the question I have mentioned had, in fact, already been accepted by the commission and there was supposed to be nothing inconsistent with them in the draft of the covenant first adopted, the draft which was the subject of our discussion in March, but no objection was made to anything explicitly in the text that all had supposed to be implicated in it.

"The Monroe doctrine is expressly mentioned as an understanding which is in no way to be impaired or interfered with by anything contained in the covenant, and the expression 'regional understanding like the Monroe doctrine' was used not because anyone of the conference thought there was any comparable agreement anywhere else in existence or in contemplation, but only because it was thought best to avoid the appearance of dealing in such a document with the policy of a single nation.

Article 16 of the covenant expressly provides that if in case of any dispute arising between members of the league the matter involved is claimed by one of the parties 'and is found by the council to arise out of a matter which by international law is solely within the domestic jurisdiction of that party the council shall so report and shall make no recommendation as to its settlements.' The United States was by no means the only government interested in the explicit adoption of this provision, and there is no doubt in the mind of any authoritative student of international law that such matters as immigration, tariffs and naturalization are incontestably domestic questions with which no international body could deal.

"The right of any state to withdraw had been taken for granted, but no objection was made to making it explicit. Indeed, so soon as the views expressed at the White House conference were laid before the commission it was at once conceded that it was best not to leave the answer to so important a question to inference. No proposal was made to set up any tribunal to pass judgment upon the question whether a withdrawing nation has in fact fulfilled all its international obligations and all its obligations under the covenant. It was recognized that that question must be left to be resolved by the conscience of the nation proposing to withdraw, and I must say that it did not seem to me worth while to propose that the article be made more explicit by never itself proposing to withdraw from the league if its conscience was not entirely clear as to the fulfillment of all its international obligations. It has never failed to fulfill them and never will.

"Article 10 is in no respect of doubtful meaning when read in the light of the covenant as a whole. The council of the league can only 'advise upon' the means by which the obligations of that great article are to be given effect. To the United States is a party to the policy or action in question, and it is necessary before any advice can be given or a unanimous vote of the council is required. If she is a party the trouble is hers anyhow, and the unanimous vote of the council is only advice in any case. Each government is free to reject any advice it may receive. Nothing could have been made more clear to the conference than the right of our Congress under our Constitution to exercise its independent judgment in all matters of peace and war. No attempt was made to question or limit that right. The United States is free to undertake under Article 10 to 'respect and preserve' against external aggression the territorial integrity and existing political independence of all members of the league, and that engagement constitutes a very grave and solemn moral obligation. But it is a moral, not a legal, obligation, and leaves our Congress absolutely free to put its own interpretation upon it in all cases that call for action.

"Article 10 seems to me to constitute the very backbone of the whole covenant. Without it the league would be hardly more than an influential debating society.

"It has several times been suggested, in public debate and in private conference, that interpretations of the sense in which the United States accepts the engagements of the covenant should be embodied in the instrument of ratification. There can be no reasonable objection to show interpretations accompanying the act of ratification provided they do not form a part of the formal ratification itself. But if such interpretations should be made a part of the formal resolution of ratification long delays would be the inevitable consequence, inasmuch as all the many governments concerned would have to accept, in effect, the language of the senate as the language of the treaty before ratification would be complete. The assent of the German assembly at Weimar would have to be obtained, among the rest, and I must frankly say that I could only with the greatest reluctance approach that assembly for permission to read the treaty as we understand it are ratification would be quite certainly understand it if the United States were to qualify the document in any way. Moreover, I am confident from what I know of the many conferences and debates which accompanied the formulation of the treaty that our example would immediately be followed in many quarters, in some instances with very serious reservations, and that the meaning and operative force of the treaty would presently be clouded from one end of its clauses to the other."

WAR GRENADES AS SAVINGS BANKS

Yanks' Explosive "Eggs" Made Safe For Distribution to Children.

The most unique and interesting of all souvenirs of the great war will soon be ready for distribution among the boys and girls of Pennsylvania, Delaware and New Jersey.

These souvenirs are hand grenades, originally intended to be used with deadly effect against the German armies. When the war ended the government had millions of them made up. There being no longer any need for them as war weapons, the War Savings Division of the Treasury Department secured a large supply. The grenades are now being altered into savings banks to hold dimes and pennies.

The alteration simply means removal of the explosives from the grenades and the cutting of openings for deposit and removal of dimes and pennies. No change is made in the appearance or in the springs and triggers by which the grenades are operated.

Hand grenades, or "bombs," were among the most ingenious and most deadly weapons used in the war. The grenade made for the United States Army was an improvement on all the best types of hand "bombs" invented by foreign army men.

When loaded for use the grenade was kept "at safety" by a small pin which locked the firing trigger. The thrower was required to hold the bomb in his throwing hand, pull out the pin with the other hand and then make a throw. As long as the grenade was held in the hand it was safe because the hand kept a strip of metal under pressure which prevented the firing spring from working.

The instant the bomb was thrown this strip of metal was forced off by the firing spring which also operated the trigger. This trigger struck a cap which set fire to a fuse timed to burn for 3 seconds. At the end of that time the spark reached a detonator which exploded and blew up the main charge of T. N. T., shattering the bomb into about 40 pieces. These pieces were the outside shell of the grenade, it being marked out into little squares which became flying bullets because the force of the explosion broke them off at the thin parts of the shell.

The explosion was almost sure death to everyone within ten yards of the spot where the bomb burst. The Yanks called the grenades "eggs." They were "bad eggs" to the Germans.

These wonderful weapons with firing pin and trigger still included but made safe and harmless are now being used to build up instead of to destroy. They are the queerest and most interesting savings banks ever made. To obtain one a boy or girl is required to buy a 1919 Government Savings Stamp, which costs $4.19 during August and $4.20 in September. The stamps and grenades are to be obtained at banks or at offices of the War Savings Division in every town. A Savings Stamp is to be bought when the boy or girl goes for the grenade. The boys and girls also sign a pledge to use all of the money saved in their grenade banks to buy more Government Thrift or Savings Stamps.

That is how the grenade will help to build up. The money put into Savings Stamps is loaned to the Government and will be used to pay off war debts and promote the Government's prosperity plans.

Savings Stamps costing $4.19 or $4.20 in August or September, 1919, will be bought back by the Government in January, 1924, for $5 each. Those who buy them not only save their money, but earn good interest on it. Thrift Stamps start a Savings Stamp bank account and cost only 25 cents each.

Further information about the way the grenades are to be distributed and how soon they will be ready may be obtained at banks and War Savings offices everywhere.

FORD CLEARED; NOT ANARCHIST

JURY IN FAMOUS LIBEL SUIT FINDS FOR PLAINTIFF AND DECLARES TRIBUNE GUILTY.

DELIBERATE TEN HOURS

Farmer Jury Which Has Spent Three Months in Court Is Out Ten Hours and Then Finds Paper Guilty of Libel.

Mt. Clemens, Mich.—Henry Ford is not an anarchist!

A jury of 12 farmers have said so by their verdict, in which they found The Chicago Tribune guilty of libel when it attached that stigma to the name of the great manufacturer.

"We find the Chicago Tribune guilty, and attach a verdict of six cents." This sentence from the foreman of the jury which for three months has listened to the most famous case of its kind in history and which debated more than 10 hours before it arrived at its conclusion, were the lines of the final act in the dramatic event which has attracted the attention of the entire country.

Henry Ford himself was not in court to share in the triumph. He was in the New Hampshire woods with his friends, Thomas Edison and John Burroughs. Judge Alfred J. Murphy of Mr. Ford's counsel made a formal statement for his principal:

"Ford is vindicated."

"The important issue has been determined," said Judge Murphy. "Money damages were not sought by Mr. Ford. He stands not only vindicated but his attitude as an American citizen has been justified after a trial which raised every issue against him that ingenuity and research could invent. Outside the courthouse crowds had gathered during the evening hours to await news of the jury which had been closeted in conference since morning. As the courtroom emptied after the announcement of the verdict and the news of the decision rendered spread, cheer after cheer broke forth and a band, returning from a picnic, stopped to add its brass notes to the din.

There was a tense moment when the jurors filed into the box for the last time. Their foreman, in a voice shaking with the emotions of the moment, spoke in such a low tone that he could scarcely be heard. The clerk read back the formal verdict:

"You do say upon your oath that the said defendant The Tribune company, is guilty in the manner and form as the said plaintiff hath in his declaration in this case complained against him and you assess the damages of the said plaintiff on occasion of the premises over and above his costs and charges by him about this suit and in his behalf expended, at the sum of six cents damages."

The editorial in which The Tribune, attacked Henry Ford and branded him as an anarchist was printed in 1918. The case has been fought through several courts on one point or another ever since, finally arriving through a change of venue asked by The Tribune in Mt. Clemens.

The charge which Judge Tucker made to the jury dealt mainly with the laws of libel and contained among others, the following points:

"The Tribune claims that they carefully inquired as to what Mr. Ford's attitude was going to be as to the care of his men who joined the national guard and that they based the editorial characterizing him as an anarchist on that information. They admit the publication and insist that it was true and therefore justified; and that even if not true it was fair comment upon a matter of public interest, either of which defenses are sufficient if proven true. The burden, however, is upon the defense when they attempt to make either of the defenses mentioned. They must establish either the truth of the charge they made, or that it was fair comment within the meaning of that term.

"A newspaper has the same right as an individual to its opinions and convictions—no more and no less."

The court further informed the jury that if they found that the charge was untrue they must find for the plaintiff. He declared that there was nothing ambiguous about the editorial. It called Mr. Ford an anarchist and the only way the defendant could escape being found guilty of libel was to prove that charge. He said further that the jury must accept the popular conception of the meaning of the term "anarchist."

Counsel for The Chicago Tribune made no effort to appeal the case and accepted the verdict as it stood.

POULTRY

DESTROY LICE ON CHICKENS

Sodium Fluorid Rids Fowls Quickly of All Parasites—Dipping Is Most Economical.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

One application of sodium fluorid will kill all lice of chickens, entomologists of the department of agriculture have discovered. This inexpensive white powder, they find, will rid a flock of all the seven common species of chicken lice in a few days. One pound, costing only 40 or 50 cents at the time of this writing, is enough to treat 100 fowls, if dusted on. If dissolved in water and used as a dip, the same amount will go three times as far. It is easily applied, economical, gives immediate results, and does not injure the fowls or the poultryman.

The complete effectiveness of the sodium fluorid remedy and methods of using it are discussed in Farmers' Bulletin 801 of the United States department of agriculture, "Mites and Lice on Poultry," by F. C. Bishopp and H. P. Wood. The bulletin deals also with mites, the night pests of chickens, which require a different treatment. Lice are biting insects that work by day and are a serious foe in neglected small flocks of general farms and back yards.

Sodium fluorid—say it plainly to the druggist or you may get sodium chlorid, common salt, which it not only resembles in name but in appearance—may be obtained at most large drug stores. The finely powdered commercial form is cheaper and more easily applied by the dusting method than the fine, crystallized sodium fluorid.

To apply the material in dust form, place it in an open vessel on a table, and with one hand hold the fowl by the legs or wings. With the other hand place the chemical among the feathers next to the skin, according to what is known as the "pinch" method, which proceeds as follows: One pinch on the head, one on the neck, two on the back, one on the breast, one below the vent, one on the tail, one on either thigh, and one scattered on the under side of each wing when spread. Each pinch can be distributed by pushing the thumb and fingers among the feathers as the material is released. If the chicken is held over the vessel, the material which falls from the fowl during the operation is recovered.

The material also may be applied by means of a shaker, but this method has some disadvantages as compared with the "pinch" method. When this method is used the amount of sodium fluorid may be reduced by adding four parts of some finely powdered material, such as road dust or flour, to each part of fluorid. The dust, while not poisonous, is somewhat irritating to the nose and throat. If allowed to remain on the skin in any quantity for any great length of time, it may cause slight local irritation. For these reasons, those dusting a large number of chickens would do well to cover nose and mouth with a dust guard or damp cloth and to wash their hands occasionally.

The dipping method is more economical, but among many poultry raisers there is a general sentiment against the practice of dipping fowls, largely because most of the dips contain materials which discolor the feathers. The sodium fluorid dip, however, is harmless, and as compared with dusting is more easily done. As it is necessary that the fowls dry quickly, dipping is most applicable in the Southern states and to summer treatments in the North. For lice on young chickens, young turkeys, and, in fact, all newly hatched or sick fowls, the application of sodium fluorid in the dust form is recommended.

POULTRY NOTES

Most digestive disorders and ovarian troubles come from heavy feeding in winter without sufficient exercise.

When eggs for table use, or to sell in the market are the requirement, it is not only unnecessary but unadvisable to keep the males with the hens, and they may well be dispensed with.

Regulating Use of Motor Vehicles

The State Highway Department yesterday announced that on and after September 15, it will ask the police authorities for a rigid enforcement of the provisions of Act No. 283 regulating the use, operation, etc. of motor vehicles.
In the opinion of the State Highway Commissioner, ample time will have elapsed from the approval of this law to permit of complete compliance with its requirements.
Arrangements have been made by the Department to put out a motor squad of inspectors, fully empowered to act, and equipped with devices for checking and testing excessive weight glaring lights, etc. Inspectors will also be used in checking up the establishments of dealers in second-hand motor vehicles and the records of public garages.
Specifications for light tests have also been prepared, and the Department is now in position to make proper road and laboratory tests for controlling the front lights on motor vehicles, so that they shall comply with the provisions of this Act.

Eight hundred convalescent soldiers, sailors and marines will testify that President Wilson is a "good sport" for didn't they see him doing kitchen police duty when Mrs. Wilson gave a lawn party to the service men?

So struck were the veterans with the sight of their commander-in-chief carrying ice cream and cake to the more seriously wounded members of party, that some of them who had cameras asked to be allowed to take pictures of him in the act to which he readily assented.

After the formal presentation, the President strolled among the men, seated on the grass, and they soon lost their restraint and chatted and joked amicably with the chief executive.

Less than 40,000 American troops including those in the army of occupation and the service of supply, will remain in Europe after August 31, the War Department was advised by Gen. Pershing.

A resolution for an investigation of the news print paper industry was adopted by the Senate at the instance of Senator Reed.

Sergt. York to be Lieutenant, Retired

Representative Hull of Tennessee has introduced a bill which has the approval of the War Department giving Sergt. York, "the greatest hero of the War" the rank of second lieutenant on the retired list.

The House of Representatives, in responding to President Wilson's demand for legislation to check the high cost of living, passed the first proposed corrective measure. It extends the food control bill to wearing apparel and some other necessities of life and imposes heavy penalties for profiteering.

To prosecute food hoarders and profiteers, the Department of Justice has asked Congress for more than $2,000,000.

On going over the books, Standard Oil stockholders find that the anti-trust decisions of year ago did not injure business to any appreciable degree.

Daniel's Son Leaves the Navy

Capt. Josephus Daniels, Jr. of the U. S. Marine Corps, son of the Secretary of the Navy, who recently returned from France is now out of the service, his resignation having been accepted. Capt. Daniels will go to his former home at Raleigh, N. C. to resume his duties on the staff of his father's newspaper, the News and Observer.

National Events in a Nutshell

In reply to questions asked President Wilson by Senator Fall that he (the President) cannot proclaim peace before the Senate ratifies the treaty. The House of Representatives agricultural committee ordered to be favorably reported amendments to the food control act, imposing a fine of $5,000 and imprisonment for two years for profiteering. The House passed a resolution directing the Federal Trade Commission to investigate the high cost of shoes. Two United States aviators were captured by Mexican bandits and $15,000 was demanded for their release. The men's release was obtained. A detachment of American cavalry crossed the boundary in search of the bandits. A report of the commission of the Episcopal church contained with other recommendations, one calling for the elimination from the marriage ceremony of the work "obey" for the bride, and "with all my worldly goods I thee endow" for the groom. President Wilson and members of the Setan foreign relations committee conferred at the White House on the League of Nations. The House and Senate repealed the daylight saving law, passing the repeal bill over the President's veto. Secretary Baker appearing before the Senate military affairs committee urged an army of 576,000 men.

So It Goes.

The Lowry City Independent has an idea that the old fellow who became rich by burning the midnight oil doubtless now has a son who is prodigal with the midnight gas.—Kansas City Times.

National Events In a Nutshell

The league of nation's question was subordinated to those of the high cost of living and increased wages for railroad men. Railroad brotherhoods made demands for either increased wages or lower prices for foodstuffs. President Wilson stopped conferences with Senators on the league of nations to take up these questions. Thousands of men representing several crafts, left their work, demanding increased pay before they return. Mr. Wilson in a letter to the Director General of Railroads, told the strikers that their demand would be considered on their merits only upon their return to work. There were indications that the strikers would heed this suggestion. Mr. Wilson appeared before Congress on the high cost of living and recommended drastic action to curb profiteering and to reduce prices. Union men in a statement laid before the House of Representatives Interstate Commerce Committee asked that private capital be retired from railroad operation and that there be substituted a three-party control composed of the public the operating management, and the employees. It was announced that antitrust suit would be brought by the Department of Justice against the five big beef packers and that the Government's case would be presented to the Federal grand jury in Chicago within three weeks. District attorneys were ordered to proceed immediately in the prosecution of persons guilty of hoarding food. The Federal Trade Commission said the high prices of shoes was due to excessive profits taken by every factor in the shoe production and distribution agencies. Secretary Baker of the War Department sent to Congress a bill providing for a field army of 1,250,000 men.

The music furnished by the Osterburg and Pavia band, also the game of ball played by "The Candy Factory (Bedford)" and "Lacel Team" helped to enliven the occasion.

About 2:30 P. M. the assembly was called to order by the President at which time the following program was rendered:—Music, band; Prayer, Rev. Middlesworth; Address of Welcome was fittingly given by Fred Samuels, Bedford; Response, W. H. Clouse; Recitation "Memory's Tear" by Miss Edna Kauffman, was well rendered; Address, Rev. Borger; History of the Kauffman family dating back to the year 1732 was read by Mrs. Grimm; Exercise, "Some Don'ts" by Grace Kauffman, Helen Shaffer, and Gladys Jones; Music, band.

The patriotic recitation given by little Mary Zimmers was enjoyed by all; Address, Rev. Middlesworth and W. E. Moorehead.

The Committee appointed for the election of officers reported the following:—Pres. H. W. Clouse; Vice President, D. L. Kauffman; Cor. Sec. Mrs. Clouse; Rec. Sec. Mrs. A. S. Cobler; Historian, Mrs. Grimm; Treas., J. C. Kauffman.

The addresses given by all the speakers were very fitting ones for the occasions and much enjoyed by all.

About 5:30 all returned to their respective homes having enjoyed the best and biggest reunion ever held, and hoping for a better one next year.

A SUCCESSFUL SURPRISE

On last Sunday morning August 17th after all being present at the Church at New Buena Vista a very surprising event occurred, when the near relatives and a few friends of Mr. Daniel Diehl followed him secretly just hesitating long enough to allow Mr. Diehl and family to arrive home, when all suddenly surrounded him, reminding him of his forty-second birthday. The surprise was also in memory of his wife's birthday which had come just the week previous. A few minutes after the arrival the industrious housewives fell to work and in a short time had a table prepared with all the delicacies of the season so that it fairly groaned under the weight. The men were then called in to surround the first table which consisted of all the brothers, brothers-in-law and the father and father-in-law and a few other friends. Then the second table was surrounded there being twenty, these all ranging between the ages of two and fourteen years. That was the most remarkable scene of the day, and then lastly came the good mothers and cooks. On making preparations for their return home Mr. and Mrs. Diehl received many congratulations wishing them many more such bright and happy birthdays.

Those present were the following: Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Diehl, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Diehl, Mr. and Mrs. William Diehl, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Diehl, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Herline, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Zeigler, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Mowry, Mr. and Mrs. James Kelley, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Beltz, Mr. Abram Beltz, Mrs. Samuel Crissey, Mrs. Hannah Mowry, Mr. Norman Hillegass, Mr. Irvin Diehl.

Misses Ruth and Pearl Diehl, Anna Zeigler, Clella Beltz, Sarah Dull, Pearl Herline, and Ida Fay Turner. Masters: Sewell, Dennis and Warren Diehl, Charles Zeigler, Walter Diehl, Kenneth, Edgar and aCron Beltz, Charles, Robert, Chester, Alfred and Blair Diehl. There being about forty four present.

One who was there.

PUP ENLISTS IN THE ARMY.

"He was a shaggy little fellow, with a little stump of a tail. He looked up so friendly at me, that I stooped over and gently patted him. He wagged his stump and body too." Sergeant in charge of the local Recruiting Station, 102½ Pitt Street, was smilingly telling how he enlisted a little Arydale pup.

"Hello pup"—said the soldier. The pup stood up propping his front feet against the Sergeant. "Want to join the Army?" The pup wagged his abbreviated tail. "Alright, come upstairs." The little dog trotted upstairs after the Sergeant.

When taken before the Examining Officer he blushed and finally admitted that he had served part of an enlistment in the 28th Division, and served as a messenger in France. He was officially entered on the pay-roll as "Chow" which is a popular army expression, and was assigned to the Recruiting Service at Harrisburg.

John was able to persuade Ruth to do most things he desired. One day the children, with their little cousin, Edward, decided to draw pictures. Edward and John each found a pencil, but Ruth was still without one until her mother came to her aid with a big new pencil. John, whose pencil was a blue stub, looked longingly at the new one and then, in a coaxing voice, said: "Ruthie, don't you want this nice pretty blue one? It just matches your eyes." Needless to say, John secured the long pencil.

Right Definition of a Classic.

A classic is properly a book which maintains itself by virtue of that happy coalescence of matter and style, that innate and exquisite sympathy between the thought that gives life and the form that consents to every mood and of grace and dignity, which can be simple without being vulgar, elevated without being distant, and which is something neither ancient nor modern, always new and incapable of growing old.—Lowell.

Yes, it's just as possible in your home as it has been in fifty thousand others. PIPELESS
CALORIC FURNACE
The Original Patented Pipeless Furnace

It can be set up in a day, without inconvenience to you, and will make your home so comfortable in the severest winter weather you will be well repaid.

Your house will be uniformly warm; your cellar will be just right for the storage of fruits and vegetables. Your fuel bill will be less than with stoves that heat only a part of your house.

HERE ARE THE REASONS

The Caloric is the Original Patented Pipeless Furnace—the result of the study of competent engineers to solve the heating problem in the most satisfactory way. That they have succeeded is proved by the fact that the number of Calorics sold on an absolute guarantee of satisfaction is three times greater than any other pipeless furnace.

The cause of this satisfaction lies in the patented and exclusive principles that distinguish the Caloric from all others. It is not a pipe furnace provided with an extra casing, but a complete revolution in furnace building designed exclusively for pipeless heating.

Come In And See Us

We will show you what these principles are, and you will then see what Caloric quality means, why it always succeeds and why imitations cannot accomplish the same results. Then you will be in no danger of buying an inferior article, with all its disappointment in later months. Get a copy of the book "Progress," which tells the fact about pipeless heating. If you can't come in, write for it.

The net weight of the family is 1740 lbs. and the "family" is composed of Michael Enos Diehl, son of B. F. Diehl and Elizabeth Lincoln Diehl, daughter of S. F. Diehl, Enos's wife, both little bits of people who hail from Cumberland. Then come Russell Conwell Diehl, Effie Catherine DuVall, Harvey Herman Diehl, Lena Irene Gross, Mary Elizabeth Diehl, Virginia Ruth Diehl, Loretta Wiley Diehl and Eva Anna Marie Diehl.

Labor

Out of chaos, out of work,
I arose and did my work
While the ages changed and sped
I was toiling for my bread.
Underneath my sturdy blows,
Forests fell and cities rose.
And the hard, reluctant soil
Blossomed richly from my toil.
Palaces and temples grand
Wrought I with my cunning hand.
Rich indeed was my reward—
Stunned soul, and body scarred
With the marks of scourge and rod.
I, the tiller of the sod,
From the cradle to the grave
Shambled through the world—a slave!
Crushed and trampled, beaten, cursed
Serving best, but served the worst,
Starved and cheated; gouged and spoiled.
Still I builded, still I toiled.
Undernourished, underpaid
In the world myself had made.

Up from slavery I rise,
Dreams and wonder in my eyes,
After brutal ages past,
Coming to my own at last.
I was slave—but I am free!
I was blind—but I can see!
I, the builder—I, the maker,
I, the calm tradition breaker,
Slave and serf and clod no longer,
Know my strength—and who is stronger?
I am done with ancient frauds
Ancient lies and ancient gods—
All the sham is overthrown,
I shall take and keep my own,
Unimpassioned, unafraid,
Master of the World I've made!

Address of Mr. James Mark

Is that no senator must contradict another, so it was put off and the bill was not passed at all. They passed a sedition bill because they were afraid we would tell on them. I do not blame these men at all because every year you sent these men down there and they know it. I blame ourselves and think it time to get into the political game.

Do any of you want to become millionaires if you do I'll tell you how. start out get a job for $1500 a year. use $500 for living expenses and save $1,000 for 1,000 years and you'll be a millionaire. Now I know you can when meat is only 15c a bite, 10c a small, there's no difficulty in getting rich. Many people say miners are making money as high as from $9 to $12 a day then when this gets out people will talk. Now this is your own fault because you should not go out and publish your wages for it is not any one business.

Now when we start out in this great campaign we should try to accomplish something have faith and don't listen to what other people say. I think it a good idea to have a meeting out doors especially when the weather is so good, but I will tell you that you will do better with personal work than any other way. If any of the members have a chance to say anything at your work just tell them how wonderful this movement is and the things we are doing.

My father was raised a Republican and I was raised a Republican. It just like religion when you come to think of it. I was republican until Billy Bryan ran for president on his 16 to 1 issue. I thought I was going to get 1600 dollars for every one I had, and since then have been a democrat. What we want is fair play in this game. It seems a shame that after our boys, and men gave up their lives for democracy over in France then come home to find it has been entirely forgotten over here.

I wish you every success along these lines and in this great movement. If I can at any time be a help to any one I will gladly do so. I thank you.

Address of John Minnich

Mr. President and Fellow Workers I have not attended any of these meetings before but I have certainly enjoyed this one. It is not because I have not wanted to come but on account of automobile accident I failed to reach Saxton when they held it there some few weeks ago. The first time I became interested in the Labor Movement was the time of strike on the H. B. T. R. R. when I was called to Huntingdon with Sheriff to settle some questions there. When I saw men at that time stand up for their rights I realized for the first time that these were the men that are the backbone of our nation and true American citizens. I felt sorry to hear of Brother McInlay's accident and think it good idea to have stickers printed and sent out and all voters could be informed to vote, that way. It would cost but very little. I do not have much else to say tonight. I thank you.

Miller Reunion

The eighth annual reunion of the Miller Clan which was held in the Bowser Grove on Saturday August 23 surpassed all previous meetings.

Being a fair day from eight in the morning until four in the afternoon automobiles, carriages, buggies and pedestrians arrived until the grove was practically a mass of smiling humanity.

The program that was prepared was rendered in an able manner, it could not be fully carried out on account of some who had too short a notice to prepare their part, yet barring all this, the reading of a portion of Gods word, Pray and address by Rev. Gladwell Miller of Cumberland Md. was very inspiring: A duet entitled "Somebody misses. Somebody's Kisses" by Leora and Mildred Miller was followed by an address by Martin L. Miller of Johnstown which was followed by reading by Eva Kallman. Duet, "Keep the home fires burning" by Mrs. Hazel Miller and Gladys Davis followed by a recitation by Alice Suter which was followed by short addresses by different members of the clan.

The rendering of the program was interspersed with music by the New Paris band. After which the officers were elected for the coming year as follows: Pres. John Henry Miller, of Gustown; Vice President: John H. Miller of Schellsburg; Treasurer: Joseph Miller, of Johnstown; Secretary: A. E. Miller, of New Paris; Assistant Secretary, Ralph Kinzey of Getstown.

Shaffer Reunion

Last Saturday at the Bedford Springs the Shaffer family held their second annual reunion. It was attended by about 75 people with a few recruits from 1918 which was held that year at the old homestead now owned by a son, Nelson Shaffer. That day was spent getting acquainted and passing up jokes but the happiest time was the dinner hour when after the invocation by Rev. Nelson Guyer the whole family sat down to the same table all eating from a most capacious supply under the same roof, the canopy of heaven. All filled themselves except the young editor and an old gentleman by the name of Holinger. Of course you can't fill him.

No organization was effected of the family reunion but next year we hope to have a president, vice president, secretary and executive committee.
